

JENNIFER RAMOS VERA

Background story

My great-grandparents were Spanish but they moved to Ecuador. Some of my great-grandparents had Ecuadorian origins, others had Spanish origins, and they immigrated to America for work and money. Finally, they formed their families there, they had children and grandchildren and they stayed here.

How do I feel?

I was born on 10-06-2000 in Ecuador (Guayaquil). I lived in Ecuador for five years and then I moved to Spain. First we came to Spain on holidays, but my parents liked the city and decided to stay, life here is easier and safer. In Ecuador there are a lot of bands and crime, education is very poor and there is not much work. I guess my parents decided to stay to give me a better future both, for me and my brothers. I feel very happy living here, but I would like to visit my family because I have not seen them in the last eleven years.

(Guayaquil)

It is the most populous city and the second largest one the Republic of Ecuador. Marginal districts are very poor while large cities are richer.

Great-grandparents:

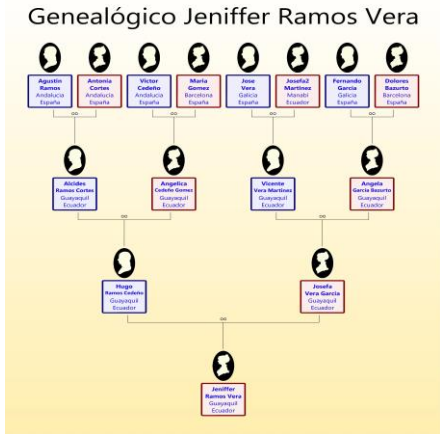

Agustín-Antonia
Víctor- María

Grandparents:

Alcides-Angelica

Dad:

Hugo Ramos

Great-grandparents:

José-Josefa
Fernando-Dolores

Grandparents:

Vicente-Angela

Mom:

Josefa Vera

